The Line Up

A lot of people find comfort in TV shows when they're bored, sad, angry, or happy. It's like a connection between the show and the person, it helps them keep their mind off the things they are going through. I drew a 10-year-old girl sitting in front of the TV watching a zombie apocalypse show while her parents argue. The Walking Dead is the show I found comforting when covid started and when I had family problems at a young age.
