

Luis Soto

Inside A Bubble

Mixed Media

This past year has felt like I'm inside a quarantine bubble. Everyone I've reached out to would agree. We were all social, and are missing our favorite coffee spots, interacting with friends, family, even strangers. Some of us have had mental health issues from craving human interactions, depicted by the person in the bottom. Others and I have just rolled with the punches watching everything.