The Start of a Colorful Spring

Clay

The art I'm submitting is a clay sculpture of a newborn bunny that just hatched out of an Easter themed egg. Spring has always been special to me. Spending time with my loved ones, beautiful scenery, and wonderful weather. It's also the time for my (and many other's) favorite holiday, Easter. Although I can't enjoy some of those things I still want to keep that positive energy for the season. The bunny hatching symbolizes the bizarre, yet breathtaking year we had. The bunny actually being born is a depiction that this spring could be a new start for everyone. Which is something many look forward to during this time.
